BRAND DEVISED AND CREATED BY 93FT - SHEFFIELD, ENGLAND

The Cerberus, was flooded ... on a shallow sandbank.

The Cerberus is the famous shipwreck that you can see grounded right here in Half Moon Bay.

She was such a huge wall of iron that it was a fast and cheap way of getting a breakwater," he said.

Mr Molesworth has been part of five committees to save the Cerberus, which is breaking up and subsiding.

He said the last advisory committee managed to get the support of the Kennett Government to have the Cerberus as a preferred project for Centenary of Federation funding, but this was rejected at the last moment.

"Unfortunately, the Prime Minister has a Sydney-centric approach to the Centenary celebrations."

Mr Molesworth said.

"But the silly thing is that the Cerberus is an Australian story, not just a Victorian story."

It is the last surviving flagship of a colonial navy in the world.

It was the second ship through the Suez Canal.

It was the prototype on which all modern steel ships were based and adopted an approach which led to the development of the submarine.
